OUR TOUR SUGGESTIONS

50 million years ago, the Aquitaine basin was a vast tropical sea. The flowing waters drained large amounts of sediment that gradually accumulated to form different soils.

The first castle visits and tasting start around 10 am and last on average 1h30mn.

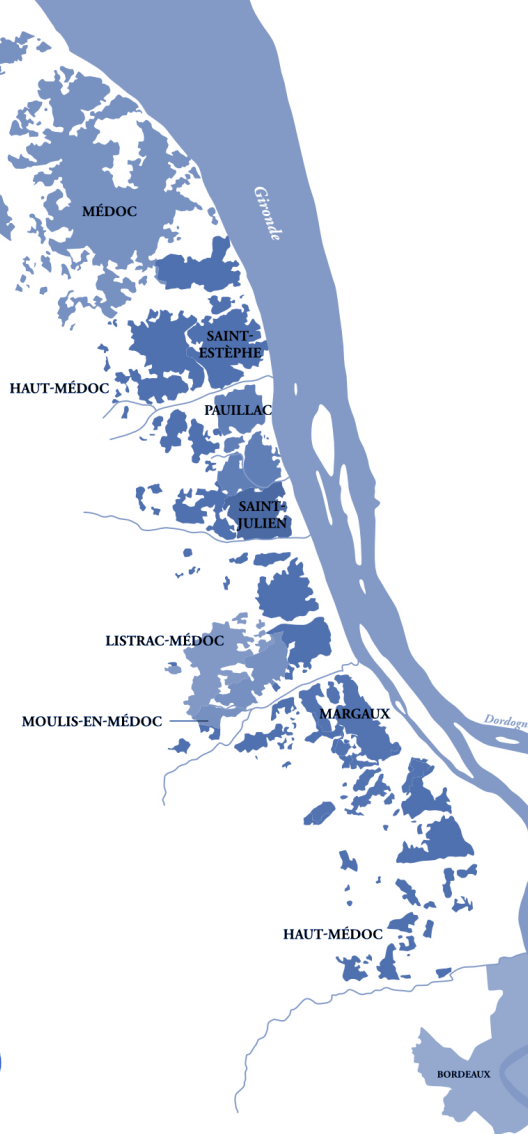

The pick-up and drop-off locations can be customized.

1- The Medoc

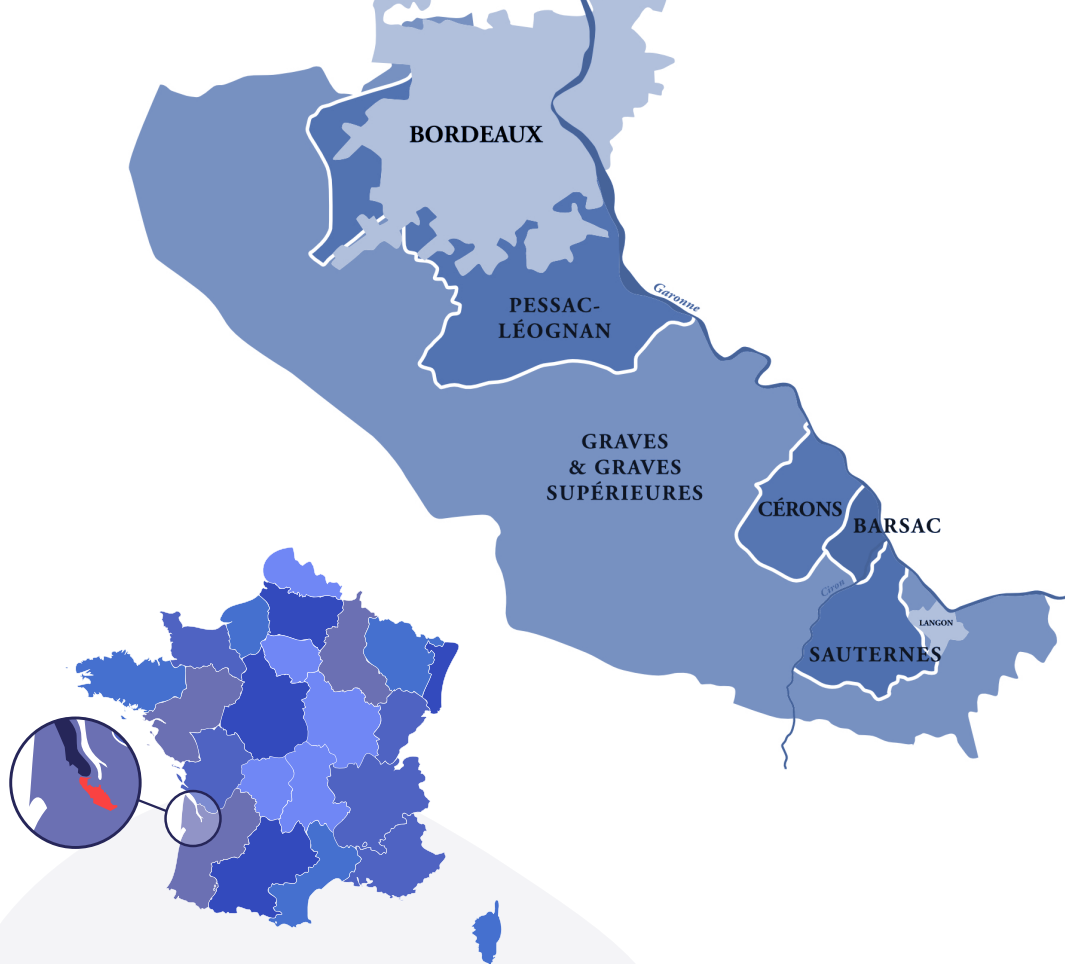

The great originality of the Médoc wines lies in the fact that they are all made from a blend of several grape varieties. Cabernet Sauvignon is the predominant grape variety in the Médoc.

The AOC Médoc concerns the northern part of the Gironde peninsula. It is 80 km long and 10 km wide.

DID YOU KNOW ?

This AOC covers 5 473 hectares of vineyards and produces 285 000 hectoliters of wine per year.

2 – Graves vineyards

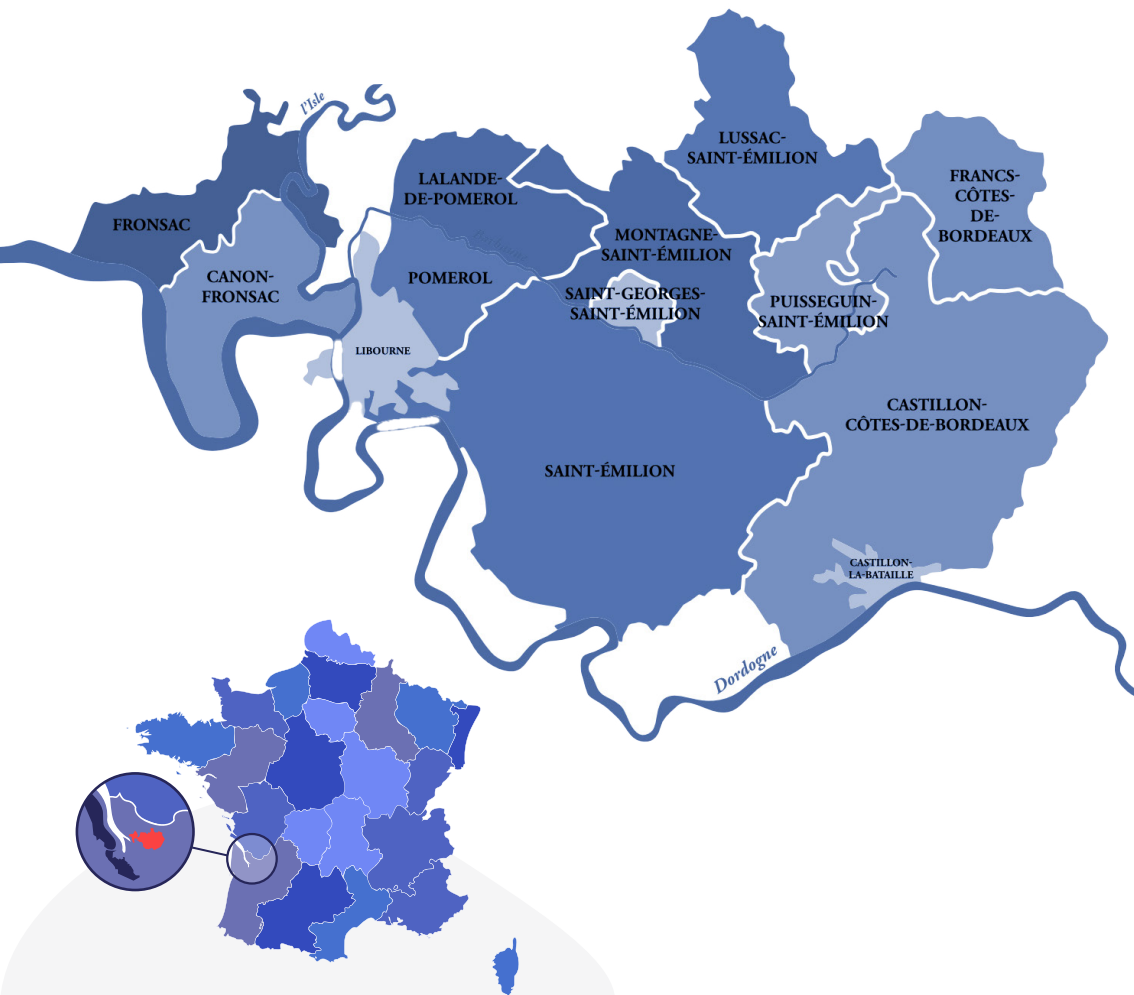

The very notion of «cru» and the production of the first great wines of Bordeaux date back to Chateau Haut Brion at the end of the 17th century.

The Sauternes AOC produces a precious nectar known throughout the world and is considered the best white wine in the world.

The Ciron river is at the origin of a microclimate particularly favorable to Botrytis cinerea, a fungus that concentrates the grapes and gives exceptional wines (Chateau Yquem).

DID YOU KNOW ?

Although officially recognized in 1987 by the INAO (National Institute of Origin and Quality), the geographical area of the Pessac-Léognan appellation remains the historical heart of the great terroirs of Graves.

3 - Saint-Emilion

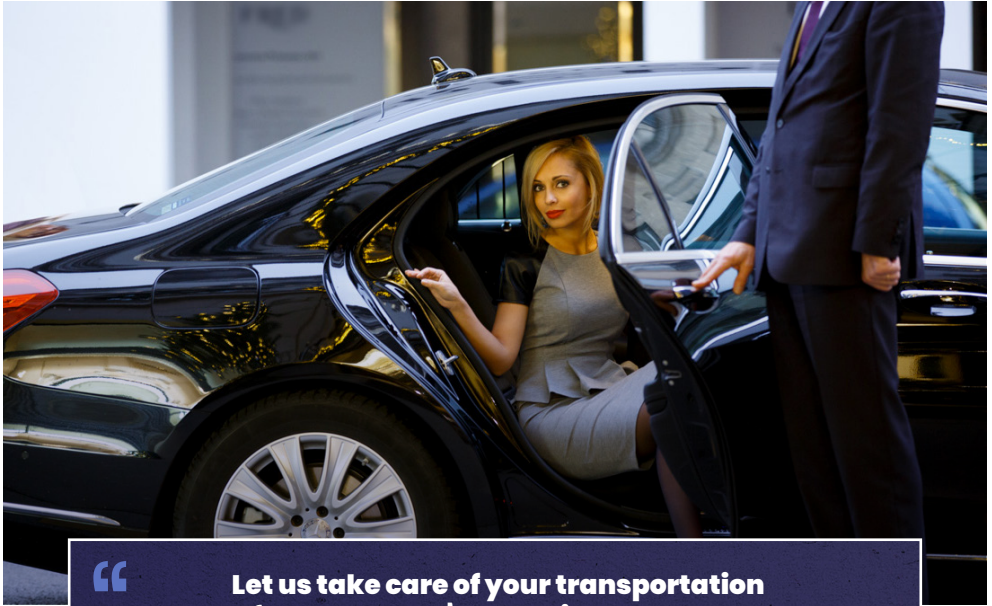

Over the centuries, Merlot has become the preferred grape variety of Saint Emilion.

Surrounded by 2 rivers, the Dordogne and the Isle, and crisscrossed by 2 small tributaries, Saint Emilion enjoys an extremely favorable microclimate. This microclimate is characterized by rainfall evenly distributed over the year and hot and dry summers: the heat is tempered by the presence of four rivers.

In addition, its gently sloping plateaus offer a full range of exposures and soil types with a predominance of clay and limestone, which allows for freshness and humidity. Giving a perfect combination for the cultivation of Merlot.

DID YOU KNOW ?

Twenty years ago, for the first time, Unesco classified a vineyard as a world heritage site. The city of Saint-Emilion, surrounded by the eight communes where the famous wine is produced, was declared «exceptional and intact cultural landscape».
